INCORPORATING DEP'T
MAKES FINE SHOWINGJune Receipts Total Over $16,000.
Highest Amount in History, But Appropriation is Reduced

That the incorporating department is one of the best revenue producers in the entire state government is shown by the report for the month of June, which shows total receipts amounting to $16,324.95. This is the largest amount ever taken in during any month since the establishment of the incorporating department, either during the territorial commission or since statehood.

Increase in the June receipts over all previous records is partially accounted for by the fact that the annual reports and renewals of licenses were due at the end of the fiscal year, but the fact that the fees last month were larger than ever before is also taken to indicate that the department is growing steadily. The gain in receipts is made the more noticeable by reason of the fact that the last legislature reduced the appropriation for this department to $100 per month.

AMMUNITION FOR ITALY

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH]
MILAN, July 2.—Lombardy, Italy's great manufacturing center, has organized a "preparations of munitions" committee and an executive committee which is collaborating with the military authorities in the work of organizing Italian industries on a vast scale to cope with the unexpected national situation regarding munitions.

The duties of the committee will be to ascertain if the factories can install machinery for army work to supply designs and patterns and also to regulate prices and stimulate rapidity of construction by longer hours and day and night sessions. The committee consists of experts from the Milan College of Engineers and Architects, and the Milan Electro-Technic association, which is largely providing the funds required, aided by subscriptions from residents of Milan.

PROBING RECRUITING

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH]
SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—John Preston, U. S. attorney, investigating British recruiting, issued subpoenas for witnesses in an attempt to trace the source of $150,000 said to have been spent in recruiting two hundred men here, for the British military service. It is said he is close to the source and look for indictments of important individuals.

Investigation will be continued next week and also the probe of the case of the Steamer Sacramento, said to have been engaged in unneutral shipping. Harry Lane, one of the men arrested early in the investigation was released on his own recognizance and the other recruits brought back from New York to testify are also free under bail.

PORFIRIO DIAZ

though not admitting that I may be unwittingly culpable, such a possibility makes me the least able to reason out and decide my own culpability. Therefore, respecting as I have always respected the will of the people, and in accordance with article 32 with the federal constitution, I come before the supreme representatives of the nation in order to resign, unreservedly, the office of constitutional president of the republic with which the national vote honored me, which I do with the more reason since, in order to continue in office, it would be necessary to shed Mexican blood, endangering the credit of the country, dissipating its wealth, exhausting its resources and exposing its policy to international complications.

"I hope, gentlemen, that when the passions which are inherent to all revolutions have been calmed, a more conscientious and just study will bring out in the national mind, a correct judgment, which, when I die, I may carry gravely on my soul as a just estimate of the life which I have devoted and will devote to my countrymen."

The revolution led by General Francisco I. Madero, Jr., had brought about the aged president's reported pledge early in 1911 to resign his office in a bargain for peace, but on May 24, the day on which the resignation was expected, it was not forthcoming. Rumor occurred that day in Mexico City, during which many persons were killed. The National Palace was stoned by mobs shouting "Viva Madero!" and demanding to know why Diaz did not resign. The next day he read his letter of resignation to the chamber of deputies. A large majority voted aye; the other legislators rose and bowed their affirmation as their names were called. The minister of foreign affairs, Francisco Leon de la Barra, was immediately chosen provisional president and Diaz, of whom for thirty years all Mexico had stood in awe, left the capital, secretly the next day, to embark at Vera Cruz for Europe. Since then he had lived virtually an exile in Paris and other European cities, a silent observer of still more troublesome times in the land he had long ruled.

The views General Diaz held of these subsequent happenings were reported mainly by rumor. He authorized by few interviews, and those in the main were those of an old man grieved over his own misfortunes and those of Mexico. He longed to see peace reestablished, and was often quoted as having urged the now former President Huerta to quit to prevent a foreign war. He was repeatedly reported on the point of returning to Mexico, but he denied that he ever would, unless Mexico was drawn into war with the United States, or unless it was for him to die in his native land.

General Diaz was born in 1829. His family were of old Spanish stock with an infusion of Indian blood. Left fatherless at the age of 3, he was educated at the expense of the bishop of Oaxaca with the intention of becoming a priest, but he eventually turned to law and then at the outbreak of the war with the United States turned to a military career. He served throughout that struggle in a militia company which he helped organize, and after peace was declared he made a special study of military science. He and one other were the only two in the country who dared openly oppose the contention of Santa Anna's dictatorship. His execution was ordered, but he escaped and joined Herrera's revolt. He speedily made a reputation as a soldier, and as a brigadier general he was the chief thorn in the side of the French forces, when, taking advantage of the Civil War in the United States, they attempted to place Archduke Maximilian of Austria on the throne of a Mexican empire. Diaz harassed the enemy constantly, and in June 1867, captured Mexico City with his forces. On the reestablishment of the republic he was unanimously elected as a candidate for president, but in 1877 he was elected to fill the unexpired term of the fugitive president, Lerdo. His last and eighth election was in July 1910.

To Diaz was given credit for the advance of Mexico to the status of a stable, progressive and prosperous government, although the autocratic methods he employed were widely criticized.

ALL IS READY FOR THE FOURTH

Notwithstanding the Fourth Comes on the Fifth This Year It Will Be a Great Day from Every Standpoint

Enthusiasm was injected into the special meeting of the Loyal Order of Moose last evening, when virtually every member in attendance pledged assistance in carrying out the Moose part of the arrangements for the joint celebration with the United Spanish War Veterans of Independence Day on Monday, July 5. The various subcommittees reported every arrangement progressing, and every indication of the most successful celebration in the history of Phoenix. It was pointed out that with every arrangement complete all that was needed was the cooperation on Monday of every member of the order to carry out the plans.

Of course the big feature of the forenoon will be the parade. The Spanish War Veterans will be out in force, as will the National Guard Companies, the National Guard Cadets, the G. A. R., the First Regiment Band, the Moose, the Woodmen of the World, the Odd Fellows, The Modern Woodmen of America, probably the Pythians and the Fraternal Brotherhood and other fraternal organizations, the fire department, the police department, the city officials, including the mayor, commissioners and the manager. There will be decorated automobiles galore as handsome prizes have been offered for the best decorated machines.

There is a special prize for the best decorated Ford car. In this connection the committee asks that all owners of cars take pride in their machines and have them in the parade. One of the simplest decorated cars in the parade last year took second prize. It isn't so much the amount of the decorations as their real taste and beauty. Senator H. A. Davis is chairman of the parade committee of The Moose and would like to hear from all persons intending to enter cars in the parade. Even if he is not communicated with the machines should fall into line at the Armory at 9 o'clock Monday morning. One of the features of the parade will be the presence of Uncle Sam, whose red identity is withheld for the present.

It was decided last evening that as far as possible all Moose shall appear dressed in white hat, shirt, trousers and shoes, with red neckties and red socks, red and white being the colors of the order. All Moose having pennants should bring them along.

There will be no end of things doing at the park. The big feature outside of the sports and the Moose Monte Carlo will be the badger fight and the family row. Either or both of these must be seen to be appreciated. The committee is pretty mum about the details of these two features preferring that the visitors to Riverside Park on Monday judge for themselves whether they are receiving their money's worth. W. T. Skidmore will have charge of the badger fight and is training a ferocious dog for the contest.

The committee of the Spanish War Veterans yesterday issued a call for all members of Phoenix Camp to be present at the Armory, not later than 8:45 a. m. on Monday July 5. The parade will start at 9:20 o'clock but it is desired to have all the members on hand so that the parade will be formed and in readiness to start on time.

Altogether it now appears that the prediction of the joint committees of the United Spanish War Veterans and the Loyal Order of Moose that this will be the greatest celebration in the history of Phoenix, is about to be realized.

THE "FOURTH ARM"

Without the aeroplane in its numerous forms, the war would have been waged on utterly different lines at almost every point. Either the trench warfare would have been indefinitely prolonged, or there would have been an ever-recurring number of surprise attacks, with alternate successes and defeats, and a ceaseless shifting of the balance of advantage; and when so many millions of troops were engaged over fronts of unprecedented lengths, heaven alone knows how the commanders-in-chief would have controlled their forces or directed their tactics. In any future war no country will take the field without regarding its "fourth arm" as its most precious and indispensable factor.—Charles S. Freeston in Scribner's Magazine.

"How did you get that stitch in your arm?"
"Oh, I got hemmed in a crowd,"—Harvard Lampoon.

This is the law of God, that virtue only is firm and cannot be shaken by a tempest.—Pthagoras.

anxious to obtain evidence against Becker. Mr. Marshall asked Webber whether Becker had anything to do with the murder and that Webber replied:

"No, but what am I to do?"
After that answer, Mr. Marshall said he told Webber to get another lawyer and that he had nothing to do with Webber since that day.

Mr. Marshall declared that professional ethics alone prevented him from going on the witness stand at the second trial and relating what Webber had told him. Webber, he said, refused to release him from his ethical obligations.

"I know I am now putting myself in a position of being hailed before the appellate division," Mr. Marshall added, "but it makes no difference to me. A man's life is at stake, and if what I have just told will help to save the prisoner's life, I am willing to take the chances."

ports that not only was a German torpedo boat sunk at Windau, but a cruiser of the Magdeburg type was also lost.

In preparation for the advance to the north supported by the German fleet, Poltchen's Petrograd correspondent states that eight German army corps are concentrated at Riga, in the Shavli region. The attack on Windau, the correspondent believes, is evidence this was the object of the German military naval authorities.

Inscription in Chalk Says Boat to Fall Victim to Kaiser

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH]
NEW YORK, July 2.—"The Kaiser will get you yet," was the inscription Captain John Bradshaw of the steamship Lapland said he found written in chalk on the floor of his cabin before the ship left this port for Liverpool. The Lapland arrived today. The message was written in German. The author of the sentence was not located. The Lapland while in Liverpool had a brass tablet installed in the companionway. It was presented by Canadian soldiers and relates to the departure of the ship from Quebec with 2,313 officers and men of the first Canadian contingent.

STRIKING MINERS PARADE

At Few Properties in Joplin District Managers Agree to Pay Scale

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH]
JOPLIN, Mo., July 2.—Striking miners resumed their parades, after they visited the mines in the morning. At a few properties the managers agreed to pay the wage scale adopted by the miners' organization and according to strike leaders, will resume tomorrow. Leaders declared they expect the operators to grant a conference on Monday, when the wage scale will be settled. They assert that several hundred miners have joined the American Metal Workers' Union and an independent organization they are forming, which the operators will be asked to recognize. A report was received here today that miners in the North Oklahoma district are preparing to strike. Many of them will begin a march to Joplin to participate in a local demonstration.

"All Cats look grey—at Night!"

"JUST Rubber and Canvas—pumped full of air!"
So thinks the Tire User who buys Pneumatics "blind," without comparison after thorough investigation.
So thinks the Car Owner who buys from the Cut Price Dealer, the "just as good" Tire on which that Dealer quotes him the biggest discount off a Price List specially printed up for that purpose.

So thinks the Man whose Tire Mill averages nearly half of his entire Season's running Expense, when it need not average one-fourth, if he would only "Work his head" and, once for all, learn the Tire Game

THERE are Car Owners who regularly get 25% to 50% MORE Mileage per Dollar invested in Tires, than do the Owners of other Cars driven with equal care, under equivalent road conditions.

The latter type of Owner is apt to conclude offhand (from his own experience) that all Tires must be Short-lived and Unsatisfactory.

Now this is to tell him that there is as much difference between the Mileage and Resilience of different brands of Tires, when the facts are investigated, and proven through actual Service, as there is difference between the Color of Cats—when viewed by Daylight.

This is to inform him that three Rubber Factories using precisely the same quantity and quality of Materials might, and sometimes do, produce (through the difference in their Rubber EXPERIENCE and efficiency methods) Tires of such widely different Mileage-Resilience as to average 3000 Miles, 4000 Miles, and 5000 Miles respectively—under parallel road conditions.

COST of production is therefore no sure guide to the Mileage and Resilience which can be put into such a subtle and "temperamental" product as the Rubber in a Pneumatic Tire.

And, though The B. F. Goodrich Co. can, and does, put the most Mileage per Dollar invested by the User, into Goodrich Safety-Tread Tires, they do not interpret this as a reason why they should charge a higher price, to include an Insurance Premium which would place their "Adjustment Basis" beyond the safe and reasonable minimum that Bad Roads and Careless Driving make necessary.

Because of its Manufacturing Advantages, its Precision Methods, and Waste-reducing Processes (resulting from its 43 years' EXPERIENCE in the working of Rubber), The B. F. Goodrich Co. can afford to and does, offer the greatest Mileage in Tires at the lowest price per Mile.

It sells the standard grade of Goodrich Safety Tires at 10% to 30% lower prices than other non-skid brands which "Guarantee" greater Mileage but cannot prove delivery of greater Mileage in actual use.
